JUDGES FAVOR MINERS

Unexpected Action in the Hearing at Pittsburgh.

PRaised the Miners' Conduct.

Now Laughed at the DeArmit's Attorney When He Tried to Have Miners' Order Included in an Injunction to Be Issued—Only Five Restrained.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—"This injunction would not justify the issuing of an attachment against any marchers not found in company with the men named in the injunction."

The above statement was made by Judge Stowe immediately after the hearing in the application of the DeArmits for an injunction against the strikers.

There appears to be a general misunderstanding as to the injunction proceedings. No injunction has been issued from the court as yet. On the application of the DeArmits a restraining order was issued by the court, directing certain persons to refrain from doing certain things until the hearing. The restraining order was so vague in its terms that it was impossible for any one not a lawyer to understand what the court meant, and the lawyers differed altogether in their interpretation of it.

The restraining order was heralded by the attorneys for the DeArmits as a sweeping injunction, but Judge Collier said in open court that it is not at all sweeping in its scope; that it is very mild indeed.

Judge Stowe said in open court that the restraining order and the injunction, if granted (as it will be no stronger), does not prevent the men from holding the camps, nor from marching for any legal purpose, so long as they do not attempt to intimidate the workmen.

At the hearing, after exhaustive testimony had been taken on both sides the judges said that they would grant a preliminary injunction, but Judge Collier refused to sign the one which had been prepared by the attorneys for DeArmit, saying that he would probably modify it somewhat.

Both judges complimented the strikers highly on their good conduct. Judge Stowe said from the bench: "It is a wonder to me, the orderly manner in which these men have behaved. They have done nothing whatever which they did not honestly believe they had a legal right to do, and although I think they have been slightly mistaken as to what they had a legal right to do, I have been surprised at their good behavior." Judge Collier added: "It has been remarkable."

Practically it stands just the same as before, as the men intend to stay at the camps and continue to do just what they have been doing. As the sheriff can't understand the restraining order, nor find anyone who can explain it to him, he is afraid to make any arrests on his authority, and so the matter stands.

When the testimony was all in Judge Stowe took the attorneys for the company clear off their feet by asking who they had identified as being among the marchers. He said he had only noted one or two and the injunction could only cover those who had been identified.

Only two men, Patrick Doan and William Warner, had been identified up to that point as defendants. The court agreed to allow the attorneys for the company to amend their papers so as to cover all others whom the testimony showed to have been marchers. The lawyers were able to find but three, Uriah Bellingham, Edward McKay and Frank McKenna. These three names were added and the temporary injunction, when issued, will be directed against these five men and others associated with them.

According to the statement of Judge Stowe, quoted above, the injunction will not in any way apply to any of the strikers unless one or more of these five are associated with them in the act which is supposed to be a violation of the injunction. In plain terms, the men can march if they get new leaders. The company would then have to go into court and ask another injunction, specifying different men.

Not Schoyer wanted the court to include the United Mine Workers, but the judges laughed at him, saying that that would be too sweeping altogether. "Why," said Judge Stowe, "we would be undertaking to assume jurisdiction over men away down in Alabama, and I don't think we will attempt that." Mr. Schoyer then asked that the local assembly be included, but the judge shook his head and smiled again.

W. J. Brennan, attorney for the strikers, asked Judge Stowe to specify exactly what acts would be a violation of the injunction. Judge Stowe said: "This injunction does not prevent you from staying in your camp, nor from marching in a legal manner, but it will prevent you from marching every morning and evening to the mines for the purpose of compelling the workmen to quit work. You can have your camp and make speeches and invite any one you choose to go there. But we will not undertake to say now what particular act would be a violation of the order. That will have to come up when some one is charged with violating it. Then, when we know just what has been done, we will decide whether it was wrong or not."

The judge's remarks seemed to indicate that the company will be required to prove that certain particular persons (naming them) have intimidated certain workmen (naming them) before the court will commit anyone.

Judge Stowe laid particular stress on the fact that moral intimidation is as illegal as physical intimidation, and said that the gathering together of large bodies of men fixed on a bent purpose is likely to cause bloodshed. He qualified this by complimenting the strikers on the remarkable good order they have maintained so far.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—William J. Jones, United States commissioner to Alaska, assigned to St. Michaels, has sent to the interior department the following report on the gold rush in a letter dated at Dyea, Alaska, Aug. 4:

"There are nearly 1,800 people in Dyea and Skagaway routes and both trails are blockaded. People are throwing away their packs and provisions and rushing headlong to the mines. Great distress, hardship and suffering and possible death from hunger and exposure is sure to follow next winter, an opinion that is entertained by all old Alaska prospectors who have visited that part of the world in late years and know the situation."

There the papers are locked up pending consideration.

In fact the preliminary skirmishes of the affair have already commenced, and as soon as the regular army from the republic can be supplied with arms of the latest pattern, hostilities will be pushed with the utmost vigor."

"The Yucatan tribe has never been subdued by white men, and the chances are that the conflict will precipitate a war between Mexico and Guatemala. The boundary line between the two countries has never been satisfactorily settled, and in the course of the impending conflict it is prophesied by those who have looked into the subject that the two republics will be brought into martial array against each other."

MAY CLOSE THE FACTORIES.

Miners Vote to Shut Down Mines About Bellaire.

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 17.—The mass-meeting of the miners held here attended by large delegations from Dillonvale, Long Run and Wheeling Creek mines, who outvoted the local miners, decided to shut down all local mines in this vicinity and will cause a number of large manufacturing plants to close and likely the city electric and water plants also. After the vote had been taken in city hall there was great excitement for a few minutes, when the miners arose and said they would go to work in the Wegee mines notwithstanding the order just voted upon.

Trouble is looked for here at any time as some miners will likely go in to work. T. L. Lewis, secretary, was in attendance and was not in favor of stopping local mines, but the vote in the mass-meeting stood 4 to 1 and thus carried.

Ratchford was in Pittsburgh, and they wired him to come down at once, but he answered it was impossible for him to attend.

Anderson, it is said, gave Kerr an order and the latter then attacked Anderson, with the above result.

Anderson went to a platform in a grove near by, which had been built as a dancing platform, but has been used lately to hold church services. About 20 of the deputies gathered around him with uncovered heads bowed in reverence, while Anderson fervently prayed aloud that the Lord would spare the life of the man whom he (Anderson) had shot only a few minutes before.

A committee of strikers offered their services to Sheriff Lowry to preserve order among the deputies.

The committee is interested only in the manufacture and cost of armor plate, and will confine its investigation to that particular branch of ordnance. The members will endeavor to learn whether or not it would be advisable for economic reasons for the government to erect its own plant; what it would cost to build and maintain such a plant, and, if the Bethlehem Iron company desires to dispose of its plant to the government, the committee will report whether the sum the company may ask, is a reasonable one.

THE UNCONQUERED YUCATANS.

Mexico's Campaign Against Indians May Cause War With Guatemala.

DENVER, Aug. 17.—Arthur Savage, inventor of the Savage repeating rifle, who has just arrived from Mexico, says: "Mexico is engaged in a destructive war with the Yucatan Indians. In fact the preliminary skirmishes of the affair have already commenced, and as soon as the regular army from the republic can be supplied with arms of the latest pattern, hostilities will be pushed with the utmost vigor."

"The Yucatan tribe has never been subdued by white men, and the chances are that the conflict will precipitate a war between Mexico and Guatemala. The boundary line between the two countries has never been satisfactorily settled, and in the course of the impending conflict it is prophesied by those who have looked into the subject that the two republics will be brought into martial array against each other."

A YOUNG LADY'S MURDER.

Poison Caused the Death of an Unfortunate Girl in Vermont.

BRISTOL, Vt., Aug. 17.—The autopsy on the body of Dora Cushman, the 15-year-old girl whose body was found in a pasture at Lincoln, has disclosed evidence which the physicians say shows that death resulted from poisoning. It was also disclosed that the girl was in a delicate condition.

William Brittell, an intimate friend of Smith Davis, who disappeared from Lincoln, has been arrested. Brittell has admitted that Davis told him of the Cushman girl's condition, and said he had procured some medicine which would bring her out of the trouble. Brittell acted as messenger between Davis and the girl, telling the latter that Davis had the medicine, and that he would meet her in the woods and give it to her.

MAY CLOSE THE FACTORIES.

Miners Vote to Shut Down Mines About Bellaire.

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 17.—The mass-meeting of the miners held here attended by large delegations from Dillonvale, Long Run and Wheeling Creek mines, who outvoted the local miners, decided to shut down all local mines in this vicinity and will cause a number of large manufacturing plants to close and likely the city electric and water plants also. After the vote had been taken in city hall there was great excitement for a few minutes, when the miners arose and said they would go to work in the Wegee mines notwithstanding the order just voted upon.

Trouble is looked for here at any time as some miners will likely go in to work. T. L. Lewis, secretary, was in attendance and was not in favor of stopping local mines, but the vote in the mass-meeting stood 4 to 1 and thus carried.

Ratchford was in Pittsburg, and they wired him to come down at once, but he answered it was impossible for him to attend.

MURDERER LED IN PRAYER.

Deputy Prayed His Victim Would Live. Others Bowd Their Heads.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—Frank Anderson of 31 Water street, this city, who was acting as chief deputy sheriff at the Plum Creek mines yesterday, shot Robert Kerr, another deputy, inflicting a wound that the doctors pronounce fatal. Anderson, it is said, gave Kerr an order and the latter then attacked Anderson, with the above result.

Anderson went to a platform in a grove near by, which had been built as a dancing platform, but has been used lately to hold church services. About 20 of the deputies gathered around him with uncovered heads bowed in reverence, while Anderson fervently prayed aloud that the Lord would spare the life of the man whom he (Anderson) had shot only a few minutes before.

A committee of strikers offered their services to Sheriff Lowry to preserve order among the deputies.

Not Shipping Coal East.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Aug. 17.—Not a ton of coal is being shipped east here, as the 45,000 soft coal workers of Pennsylvania keep that market supplied. Then again, just before the strike the three biggest mines in this region received immense lake contracts which must be filled. At present 500 men at Monongah, 40 at Pritchard, 60 at Montana, 400 at the Clarksburg mines, 80 at Palatine, 30 at New England and 60 at Judge Mason's mine are all out, but three or four times that number are still at work.

ARMOR PLATE COMMISSION.

Naval Experts in Bethlehem, Pa., Getting Information.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 17.—The members of the investigating committee who are trying to find out for the United States government what it costs to erect and maintain a plant in which armor plate for the nation's big vessels can be manufactured, are here. The committee is composed of Commodore Howell, Captain A. H. McCormick, Chief Engineer J. H. Perry, Chief Civil Engineer M. T. Endicott, Lieutenant T. F. Fletcher and Lieutenant W. I. Chambers of the United States navy and C. W. DeKnight, secretary of the naval committee of the United States senate.

The committee is interested only in the manufacture and cost of armor plate, and will confine its investigation to that particular branch of ordnance. The members will endeavor to learn whether or not it would be advisable for economic reasons for the government to erect its own plant; what it would cost to build and maintain such a plant, and, if the Bethlehem Iron company desires to dispose of its plant to the government, the committee will report whether the sum the company may ask, is a reasonable one.

THE ACT OF A COWARD

He Advertises the Review as Being For Sale.

HE DARES NOT SHOW HIS HAND

The Advertisement Appeared In the Columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and a Number of Wouldbe Purchasers Have Made Inquiries as to Terms, Etc.

The manager and owner of the NEWS REVIEW has lately received a number of letters from foreign correspondents, stating that they understood that this plant is for sale, and desiring to be given particulars respecting the same. The matter was looked upon as a practical joke for the time being, or as the petty act of some maliciously inclined enemy, someone who posted parties at a distance and thus attempted to get even for what they deemed an injury done to themselves, and no particular attention was paid to the same, despite the fact that one of the correspondents asserted that he had noticed the advertisement announcing the desire to sell in the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Still the management of this paper treated the affair as a matter of no moment, not believing that the correspondent told the truth, but simply answered the letters and told the inquirers that this plant was not for sale, that it was a good investment and making good money and that the owner and manager held the belief that good investments were a good thing and should be clung to tenaciously, or words to that effect.

Yesterday afternoon a trusted employe of the NEWS REVIEW stated that he had been informed that such an advertisement did actually appear in the Cincinnati Enquirer, and that his informant is a reliable party. Acting on this added testimony, a letter was addressed to the business manager of the Enquirer, asking that he should grant this paper the courtesy of telling who had inserted said advertisement in the journal he represents. An answer may give the desired information, and again it may not.

Be this as it may, we feel like paying our respects to the petty rascal who would thus attempt to annoy us, and create the impression, if he could, that the present owner of the NEWS REVIEW desires to sell his handsome and superbly equipped plant, and that he has been induced to do so on account of the hot enmity he has engendered in the minds and hearts of men who would ruin or ruin, and who have been so extremely foolish as to openly boast, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that they would drive the manager of the NEWS REVIEW out of East Liverpool, by fair means or foul. We say, in terse words, not to be misunderstood by this poor creature, and his still less manly backers:

The NEWS REVIEW is not for sale and will not be. Under the hand of God, it has been, is now and will be a success, just as long as it advocates and stands by the right, bearing no personal malice or hatred to any man or woman on this fair earth, but hating, with a hearty good will, every foul and evil practice and measure which tends to drag down and debase humanity at large. The Almighty has declared that the right shall win; that truth is mighty and shall prevail. The defense and advocacy of the right and of truth are the twin mottoes of the NEWS REVIEW, as God gives its owner to see the right and truth, and if these characteristics are carried into effect through the columns of this paper, then should it have the backing and support of every good and true citizen.

Finally. The NEWS REVIEW will not permit the use of its columns for the advocacy of any evil measure, at any price. No business, legal or illegal, which tends to drag down or debase the workingmen and workingwomen of this city and this section, can find a place in these columns. This is truth, not uttered in a spirit of egotism, or through a desire to be boastful, but simply because it is the right thing to do, and no Christian man, aiming to do his simple duty to the giver of all good gifts, and who recognizes the fact that he is sure to be called upon to give an account of his actions while on earth, before the bar of the great Judge, dare do an iota less. Turn on the light.

How We Prosper.

Business at the freight depot was fair yesterday, although it did not exceed the record of Saturday last. During the day 97 cars were handled in the local yards while 16 were sent out on the road and eight were unloaded at the receiving platform. Shipments are increasing, and yesterday's record was above that of last Monday.

HE GOT THE MILK.

A Story Showing the Sympathy and Simplicity of Professor Child.

Twenty years ago the writer, with her 3-year-old child, was on her way to Washington in midwinter. Instead of reaching that beautiful city early in the morning, as was expected, the train was stalled in the night by a terrible blizzard. After the height of the storm was over it took hours to dig away the heavy snow that buried, not only the rails, but the whole world apparently. Slowly and laboriously the locomotive crept on, and we were still 200 miles from Washington when the church clock struck 8 in a village where we halted. Men jumped up to see if there were time to get a cup of coffee; nervous and anxious women clamored for tea, and I cried with the rest, "Oh, if only I could get a glass of milk for my little girl!" "Impossible," said the brakeman, who was passing through the car; "we shan't be here but a minute."

Paying no heed to his words, a gentleman of striking appearance, whose fine face and head I had been silently studying, hurriedly left the car and disappeared upon the snowy platform. "He'll get left," sneered the brakeman.

The train moved on, feeling its way through the huge white banks on both sides. The gentleman had evidently been traveling alone, for no one seemed anxious because he did not come back. The cars were hardly in full swing, however, when he jumped aboard, a little out of breath, dusted with snow, but self possessed and calm, holding carefully a tall glass of milk, which he gave to the wee girl beside me. My stammered thanks for such unexpected kindness from an unknown traveler he brushed away with a wave of his hand. "But the glass?" I insisted, knowing it could not be returned, as we were now thundering onward. "Is yours, madam," he replied, settling himself into his seat, paying no more attention to us. But later in the course of the dreary forenoon he motioned to the little lass to come to him, which she willingly did. He lifted her to his side, and with his arm round her she cuddled up against him, and for two hours he whispered stories into her ear, so low that no one else could hear, but the delight of which was reflected in her dancing eyes and smiling lips.

At Baltimore the stranger disappeared, and a gentleman across the passage from us leaned over and said, "Do you know who has been entertaining your child so charmingly, as indeed only he could?" "I haven't the faintest idea," "Professor Francis J. Child."

So many years have flown since then that the little lass herself writes stories now—perhaps faraway echoes of those she heard that wintry day when Professor Child made summer in her heart, but the tall, thick depot tumbler still stands on the high shelf of the cupboard, too sacred for any use, save as a memento of the kindly chivalry of a great man to a little child.—Atlantic's Contributors' Club.

AN INFANT TERRIBLE.

She Made a Man Blush and the Girls Giggle.

"Literal children, or, more properly, children who take your chiding literally, are holy terrors," relates a young man noted for his politeness to ladies. "I was in a herdic the other day which was much crowded, though no one was standing at the time. Presently a lady and gentleman got in, and I gave my seat to the lady, leaving the old gentleman standing. Immediately a young lady sitting in one end of the herdic called to her little sister, a child of 6 perhaps, who was sitting near the door at the other end, to come to her and give her seat to the elderly gentleman. The child came willingly enough, and while the sister was reading her a lesson in manners a passenger got out, and I took a seat. "Never let me see you remain seated again when people older than you are standing," closed the lecture, and the child was crowded, half sitting, half standing, between the older sister and the lady next to her. Two minutes later a pretty girl got in, and of course, as the only gentleman in the herdic, I gave her my seat. No sooner had I done so than that small terror was on her feet.

"Oh, mister," she said in sweet, shrill accents, "you take my seat! You're older than me." And everybody laughed, of course, trust a lot of giggling girls for that, for the only place on earth that I could have "taken a seat" was on the sister's lap, from which the child had slid. I didn't take the seat, but I did take to the street and walked five blocks in a drizzling rain to get away from the giggle of those girls.—Washington Star.

Hadrian's Wall.

Hadrian, in A. D. 120, built a stone wall from Bowness, near Carlisle, on Solway frith, to the river Tyne, near Newcastle. It was 80 miles long and garrisoned by 10,000 troops. It was from 12 to 20 feet high at various points, 8 feet thick at the top and was provided with a gallery in the rear, which enabled its defenders to take their stand with only head and shoulders visible to the enemy. At every quarter of a mile there was a castle with a garrison of troops. Beacon lights and signals were used, and on an attack, whether by day or by night, the news was at once flashed up and down the wall from sea to sea.

INDIVIDUAL WEALTH.

Massachusetts Leads With Bank Holdings.

James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency, has prepared a valuable table of information relating to the national banking system of the United States from 1864 to 1897. One of the important features of the report is a statement of the average per capita holdings of bank funds in 1896 in all the states and territories of the Union. This statement shows that Massachusetts leads all the states, with an average of $120.50 for every person within its borders, while Rhode Island is next, with $117.21. The average for New York is $86.18. The average for the United States is $73.14.

Here are the averages by states: Maine, $45.88; New Hampshire, $41.85; Vermont, $53.34; Massachusetts, $120.50; Rhode Island, $117.21; New York, $86.18; New Jersey, $43.12; Pennsylvania, $60.61; Delaware, $42.68; Maryland, $53.56; District of Columbia, $65.49; Virginia, $12.37; West Virginia, $13.70; North Carolina, $4.92; South Carolina, $5.35; Georgia, $6.12; Florida, $12.73; Alabama, $6.25; Mississippi, $2.56; Louisiana, $18.24; Texas, $22.15; Arkansas, $2.72; Kentucky, $16.54; Tennessee, $13.56; Ohio, $40; Indiana, $22.26; Illinois, $39.50; Michigan, $22.56; Wisconsin, $25.37; Iowa, $20.48; Minnesota, $29.88; Missouri, $19.37; Kansas, $20.12; Nebraska, $20.20; North Dakota, $20.44; South Dakota, $11.31; Washington, $22.92; Oregon, $33.16; California, $19.17; Montana, $86.79; Idaho, $21.38; Wyoming, $30.41; Nevada, $5.40; Utah, $20.08; Colorado, $66.30; Arizona, $19.27; New Mexico, $15.61; Oklahoma, $5.24; Indian Territory, $5.95; Connecticut, $80.31.

The deposits fluctuated, as did loans and discounts, the maximum being reached in 1892, when they amounted to $1,779,300,000. In the following year deposits declined to $1,465,400,000 and reacted the following year to $1,742,100,000. The circulation outstanding in 1866 reached $290,000,000, and the highest point was reached in 1873, the amount being $341,000,000. The minimum amount outstanding is shown to have been $122,900,000 in 1890. At the close of 1896 the amount had risen to $209,900,000.—New York Herald.

Number of Newspapers Published.

A recent statistical estimate places the number of newspapers which are annually printed at the enormous figure of 12,000,000,000. A mathematician, apparently with considerable time at his disposal, in order to give a more comprehensive idea of this number, has calculated that a surface of 80,000 square kilometers could be covered with these papers. The paper alone weighs 781,240 tons. In case one machine was forced to print these millions at the rate of one a second 338 years would be necessary. Placed one upon another the papers would reach to the height of 80,000 meters. Assuming that a person devotes five minutes a day to reading his paper, the time used by the entire population of the world in reading newspapers each year amounts to 100,000 years.—New York Tribune.

Mixed as to Definitions.

Hungry Higgins—Wot! You dunno wot a miser is? A miser is a man that denies himself the necessities of life when he has the money to buy 'em.

Weary Watkins—Oh, I have met some of them fellers. But I t'ought they called themselves prohibitionists.

A woman's attractiveness in the eyes of man depends largely on her physical appearance. Nature, in order to preserve the race, guides mankind by the instinctive preference for a mate who is physically sound and wholesome.

If intellect alone were chiefly sought, the offspring might be a generation of Solomons for wisdom, but they would perish in infancy for want of physical stamina.

A weak or unhealthy woman is unfitted to fulfill her part in perpetuating the race; she is unequal to the demands of motherhood and wifehood, she is robbed of her natural womanly attractiveness.

Many a woman is cheated of life's choicest gifts by a dyspeptic, bile-poisoned condition of the system, which shows itself in a pimply skin, sallow complexion, tainted breath, or thin, ungraceful form.

The most perfect remedy for all the mortifying symptoms of mal-nutrition and impure blood is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Through its remarkable effect upon the liver and digestive organs it sweeps all impurities out of the circulation and creates a fresh supply of new, rich, life-giving blood.

It gives clearness and bloom to the complexion; sweetens the breath; rounds out the face and form, and invigorates the entire constitution with vital energy.

It restores the invincible beauty of wholesomeness and womanly capacity.

"I was a complete wreck; appetite gone, nervous system impaired; could not sleep, and was so weak that I could not stand on my feet ten minutes," writes Miss Ella Bartley, of No. 2154 South Grant Avenue, Columbus, Ohio: "I only weighed 95 pounds when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After I had taken a half bottle I began to improve; I could sleep soundly the whole night, and would awaken with an appetite for breakfast, which was a rare thing as I never had for two years back eaten a hearty breakfast. I now have an excellent appetite, and my friends say they never saw me looking better or in better spirits since they knew me. I tell them it is all due to Dr. Pierce's 'Discovery'."

In all cases of obstinate constipation, the "Discovery" should be supplemented with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

DOUBLE DEALING

Is the Cause of Many Heart Burnings—An East Liverpool Case That Was Opposite.

Double dealing, like so many other expressions in the Anglo-Saxon language, has different meanings. The text or heading does not refer to the deceitful, hypocritical specimens of manhood who curry favor for their own ends and keep a community in a ferment by retailing scraps of confidences. This time it is the double dealing of the little conqueror, Doan's Kidney Pills—to be more correct, the double healing. One member of a family tests them. Like disease, the infection spreads. Another tries them, an acquaintance or a friend, may be. Result the same—a cure. Read the statement that follows, made by Mrs. Edmund Parton, of 233 Ravine Street. She says: "Both my husband and I can testify to the value of Doan's Kidney Pills. I had backache, headache and other symptoms of the complaint for two years. When the last attack came on I went to the W. & W. Pharmacy, and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. In a very short time I was relieved."

"My husband, who is a painter, decorator and paperhanger, of the firm of Parton & Jackson, was seized with a severe attack of kidney complaint lately. Some three years ago he contracted a fever, which left his kidneys in bad shape, and ever since he has had more or less trouble. When suffering last a gentleman advised him to try Doan's Kidney Pills, emphasizing the facts that he had been a sufferer with kidney disease; confined to his bed; his physician informed him that perhaps he would be able to get him up in two or three weeks; that he used Doan's Kidney Pills, and in a day or two he was able to be up and about his business. The gentleman spoke so highly about the remedy that my husband got a box at once. They were prompt in relieving him. I felt better generally. We can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I hear numbers of people speak well of them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. By mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

THE ACT OF A COWARD

He Advertises the Review as Being For Sale.

HE DARES NOT SHOW HIS HAND

The Advertisement Appeared In the Columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and a Number of Wouldbe Purchasers Have Made Inquiries as to Terms, Etc.

The manager and owner of the NEWS REVIEW has lately received a number of letters from foreign correspondents, stating that they understood that this plant is for sale, and desiring to be given particulars respecting the same. The matter was looked upon as a practical joke for the time being, or as the petty act of some maliciously inclined enemy, someone who posted parties at a distance and thus attempted to get even for what they deemed an injury done to themselves, and no particular attention was paid to the same, despite the fact that one of the correspondents asserted that he had noticed the advertisement announcing the desire to sell in the columns of the Cincinnati Enquirer. Still the management of this paper treated the affair as a matter of no moment, not believing that the correspondent told the truth, but simply answered the letters and told the inquirers that this plant was not for sale, that it was a good investment and making good money and that the owner and manager held the belief that good investments were a good thing and should be clung to tenaciously, or words to that effect.

Yesterday afternoon a trusted employee of the NEWS REVIEW stated that he had been informed that such an advertisement did actually appear in the Cincinnati Enquirer, and that his informant is a reliable party. Acting on this added testimony, a letter was addressed to the business manager of the Enquirer, asking that he should grant this paper the courtesy of telling who had inserted said advertisement in the journal he represents. An answer may give the desired information, and again it may not.

Be this as it may, we feel like paying our respects to the petty rascal who would thus attempt to annoy us, and create the impression, if he could, that the present owner of the NEWS REVIEW desires to sell his handsome and superbly equipped plant, and that he has been induced to do so on account of the hot enmity he has engendered in the minds and hearts of men who would rule or ruin, and who have been so extremely foolish as to openly boast, in the presence of reliable witnesses, that they would drive the manager of the NEWS REVIEW out of East Liverpool, by fair means or foul. We say, in terse words, not to be misunderstood by this poor creature, and his still less manly backers:

The NEWS REVIEW is not for sale and will not be. Under the hand of God, it has been, is now and will be a success, just as long as it advocates and stands by the right, bearing no personal malice or hatred to any man or woman on this fair earth, but hating, with a hearty good will, every foul and evil practice and measure which tends to drag down and debase humanity at large. The Almighty has declared that the right shall win; that truth is mighty and shall prevail. The defense and advocacy of the right and of truth are the twin mottoes of the NEWS REVIEW, as God gives its owner to see the right and truth, and if these characteristics are carried into effect through the columns of this paper, then should it have the backing and support of every good and true citizen.

Finally. The NEWS REVIEW will not permit the use of its columns for the advocacy of any evil measure, at any price. No business, legal or illegal, which tends to drag down or debase the workingmen and workingwomen of this city and this section, can find a place in these columns. This is truth, not uttered in a spirit of egotism, or through a desire to be boastful, but simply because it is the right thing to do, and no Christian man, aiming to do his simple duty to the giver of all good gifts, and who recognizes the fact that he is sure to be called upon to give an account of his actions while on earth, before the bar of the great Judge, dare do an iota less. Turn on the light.

How We Prosper.

Business at the freight depot was fair yesterday, although it did not exceed the record of Saturday last. During the day 97 cars were handled in the local yards while 16 were sent out on the road and eight were unloaded at the receiving platform. Shipments are increasing, and yesterday's record was above that of last Monday.

HE GOT THE MILK.

A Story Showing the Sympathy and Simplicity of Professor Child.

Twenty years ago the writer, with her 3-year-old child, was on her way to Washington in midwinter. Instead of reaching that beautiful city early in the morning, as was expected, the train was stalled in the night by a terrible blizzard. After the height of the storm was over it took hours to dig away the heavy snow that buried, not only the rails, but the whole world apparently. Slowly and laboriously the locomotive crept on, and we were still 200 miles from Washington when the church clock struck 8 in a village where we halted. Men jumped up to see if there were time to get a cup of coffee; nervous and anxious women clamored for tea, and I cried with the rest, "Oh, if only I could get a glass of milk for my little girl!" "Impossible," said the brakeman, who was passing through the car; "we shan't be here but a minute."

Paying no heed to his words, a gentleman of striking appearance, whose fine face and head I had been silently studying, hurriedly left the car and disappeared upon the snowy platform. "He'll get left," sneered the brakeman.

The train moved on, feeling its way through the huge white banks on both sides. The gentleman had evidently been traveling alone, for no one seemed anxious because he did not come back. The cars were hardly in full swing, however, when he jumped aboard, a little out of breath, dusted with snow, but self possessed and calm, holding carefully a tall glass of milk, which he gave to the wee girl beside me. My startled thanks for such unexpected kindness from an unknown traveler he brushed away with a wave of his hand. "But the glass?" I insisted, knowing it could not be returned, as we were now thundering onward. "Is yours, madam," he replied, settling himself into his seat, paying no more attention to us. But later in the course of the dreary forenoon he motioned to the little lass to come to him, which she willingly did. He lifted her to his side, and with his arm round her she cuddled up against him, and for two hours he whispered stories into her ear, so low that no one else could hear, but the delight of which was reflected in her dancing eyes and smiling lips.

At Baltimore the stranger disappeared, and a gentleman across the passage from us leaned over and said, "Do you know who has been entertaining your child so charmingly, as indeed only he could?" "I haven't the faintest idea," "Professor Francis J. Child."

So many years have flown since then that the little lass herself writes stories now—perhaps faraway echoes of those she heard that wintry day when Professor Child made summer in her heart, but the tall, thick depot tumbler still stands on the high shelf of the cupboard, too sacred for any use, save as a memento of the kindly chivalry of a great man to a little child.—Atlantic's Contributors' Club.

AN INFANT TERRIBLE.

She Made a Man Blush and the Girls Giggled.

"Literal children, or, more properly, children who take your chiding literally, are holy terrors," relates a young man noted for his politeness to ladies. "I was in a herdic the other day which was much crowded, though no one was standing at the time. Presently a lady and gentleman got in, and I gave my seat to the lady, leaving the old gentleman standing. Immediately a young lady sitting in one end of the herdic called to her little sister, a child of 6 perhaps, who was sitting near the door at the other end, to come to her and give her seat to the elderly gentleman. The child came willingly enough, and while the sister was reading her a lesson in manners a passenger got out, and I took a seat. "Never let me see you remain seated again when people older than you are standing," closed the lecture, and the child was crowded, half sitting, half standing, between the older sister and the lady next to her. Two minutes later a pretty girl got in, and of course, as the only gentleman in the herdic, I gave her my seat. No sooner had I done so than that small terror was on her feet.

"Oh, mister," she said in sweet, shrill accents, "you take my seat! You're older than me." And everybody laughed, of course, trust a lot of giggling girls for that, for the only place on earth that I could have "taken a seat" was on the sister's lap, from which the child had slid. I didn't take the seat, but I did take to the street and walked five blocks in a drizzling rain to get away from the giggle of those girls.—Washington Star.

Hadrian's Wall.

Hadrian, in A. D. 120, built a stone wall from Bowness, near Carlisle, on Solway frith, to the river Tyne, near Newcastle. It was 80 miles long and garrisoned by 10,000 troops. It was from 12 to 20 feet high at various points, 8 feet thick at the top and was provided with a gallery in the rear, which enabled its defenders to take their stand with only head and shoulders visible to the enemy. At every quarter of a mile there was a castle with a garrison of troops. Beacon lights and signals were used, and on an attack, whether by day or by night, the news was at once flashed up and down the wall from sea to sea.

INDIVIDUAL WEALTH.

Massachusetts Leads With Bank Holdings.

James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency, has prepared a valuable table of information relating to the national banking system of the United States from 1864 to 1897. One of the important features of the report is a statement of the average per capita holdings of bank funds in 1896 in all the states and territories of the Union. This statement shows that Massachusetts leads all the states, with an average of $120.50 for every person within its borders, while Rhode Island is next, with $117.21. The average for New York is $86.18. The average for the United States is $73.14.

Here are the averages by states: Maine, $45.88; New Hampshire, $41.83; Vermont, $53.34; Massachusetts, $120.50; Rhode Island, $117.21; New York, $86.18; New Jersey, $43.12; Pennsylvania, $60.61; Delaware, $42.68; Maryland, $53.56; District of Columbia, $65.49; Virginia, $12.37; West Virginia, $13.70; North Carolina, $4.92; South Carolina, $5.35; Georgia, $6.12; Florida, $12.73; Alabama, $6.25; Mississippi, $2.56; Louisiana, $18.24; Texas, $22.15; Arkansas, $2.72; Kentucky, $16.54; Tennessee, $13.56; Ohio, $40; Indiana, $22.26; Illinois, $39.50; Michigan, $22.56; Wisconsin, $25.37; Iowa, $20.48; Minnesota, $29.88; Missouri, $19.37; Kansas, $20.12; Nebraska, $20.20; North Dakota, $20.44; South Dakota, $11.31; Washington, $22.92; Oregon, $33.16; California, $19.17; Montana, $86.79; Idaho, $21.38; Wyoming, $30.41; Nevada, $6.40; Utah, $20.08; Colorado, $56.30; Arizona, $19.27; New Mexico, $15.61; Oklahoma, $5.24; Indian Territory, $5.95; Connecticut, $80.31.

The deposits fluctuated, as did loans and discounts, the maximum being reached in 1892, when they amounted to $1,779,300,000. In the following year deposits declined to $1,465,400,000 and reached the following year to $1,742,100,000. The circulation outstanding in 1866 reached $290,000,000, and the highest point was reached in 1878, the amount being $341,000,000. The minimum amount outstanding is shown to have been $122,900,000 in 1890. At the close of 1896 the amount had risen to $209,900,000.—New York Herald.

Number of Newspapers Published.

A recent statistical estimate places the number of newspapers which are annually printed at the enormous figure of 12,000,000,000. A mathematician, apparently with considerable time at his disposal, in order to give a more comprehensive idea of this number, has calculated that a surface of 30,000 square kilometers could be covered with these papers. The paper alone weighs 781,240 tons. In case one machine was forced to print these millions at the rate of one a second 338 years would be necessary. Placed one upon another the papers would reach to the height of 80,000 meters. Assuming that a person devotes five minutes a day to reading his paper, the time used by the entire population of the world in reading newspapers each year amounts to 100,000 years.—New York Tribune.

Mixed as to Definitions.

Hungry Higgins—Wot! You dunno wot a miser is? A miser is a man that denies hisself the necessities of life when he has the money to buy 'em.

Wearly Watkins—Oh, I have met some of them fellers. But I t'ought they called themselves prohibitionists.

A woman's attractiveness in the eyes of man depends largely on her physical appearance. Nature, in order to preserve the race, guides mankind by the instinctive preference for a mate who is physically sound and wholesome.

If intellect alone were chiefly sought, the offspring might be a generation of Solomons for wisdom, but they would perish in infancy for want of physical stamina.

A weak or unhealthy woman is unfitted to fulfil her part in perpetuating the race; she is unequal to the demands of motherhood and wifehood, she is robbed of her natural womanly attractiveness.

Many a woman is cheated of life's choicest gifts by a dyspeptic, bile-poisoned condition of the system, which shows itself in a pimply skin, sallow complexion, tainted breath, or thin, ungraceful form.

The most perfect remedy for all the mortifying symptoms of mal-nutrition and impure blood is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Through its remarkable effect upon the liver and digestive organs it sweeps all impurities out of the circulation and creates a fresh supply of new, rich, life-giving blood.

It gives clearness and bloom to the complexion; sweetens the breath; rounds out the face and form, and invigorates the entire constitution with vital energy.

It restores the invincible beauty of wholesomeness and womanly capacity.

"I was a complete wreck; appetite gone, nervous system impaired; could not sleep, and was so weak that I could not stand on my feet ten minutes," writes Miss Ella Bartley, of No. 2103 South Grant Avenue, Columbus, Ohio: "I only weighed 95½ pounds when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After I had taken a half bottle I began to improve; I could sleep soundly the whole night and would awaken with an appetite for breakfast, which was a rare thing as I never had for two years back eaten a hearty breakfast. I now have an excellent appetite, and my friends say they never saw me looking better or in better spirits since they knew me. I tell them it is all due to Dr. Pierce's 'Discovery'."

In all cases of obstinate constipation, the "Discovery" should be supplemented with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

DOUBLE DEALING

Is the Cause of Many Heart Burnings—An East Liverpool Case That Was Opposite.

Double dealing, like so many other expressions in the Anglo-Saxon language, has different meanings. The text or heading does not refer to the deceitful, hypocritical specimens of manhood who carry favor for their own ends and keep a community in a ferment by retailing scraps of confidences. This time it is the double dealing of the little conqueror, Doan's Kidney Pills—to be more correct, the double healing. One member of a family tests them. Like disease, the infection spreads. Another tries them, an acquaintance or a friend, maybe. Result the same—a cure. Read the statement that follows, made by Mrs. Edmund Purton, of 233 Ravine Street. She says: "Both my husband and I can testify to the value of Doan's Kidney Pills. I had backache, headache and other symptoms of the complaint for two years. When the last attack came on I went to the W. & W. Pharmacy, and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. In a very short time I was relieved."

"My husband, who is a painter, decorator and paperhanger, of the firm of Purton & Jackson, was seized with a severe attack of kidney complaint lately. Some three years ago he contracted a fever, which left his kidneys in bad shape, and ever since he has had more or less trouble. When suffering last a gentleman advised him to try Doan's Kidney Pills, emphasizing the facts that he had been a sufferer with kidney disease; confined to his bed; his physician informed him that perhaps he would be able to get him up in two or three weeks; that he used Doan's Kidney Pills, and in a day or two he was able to be up and about his business. The gentleman spoke so highly about the remedy that my husband got a box at once. They were prompt in relieving him. I feel better generally. We can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I hear numbers of people speak well of them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. By mail on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

FAT MEN PLAYED A HOT GAME

Liverpool Lost to Their Corpulent Opponents—Lifted Over a Fence—Who Will Be Truant Officer—No Settlement—All the News of Wellsville.

Council held a short session last evening and transacted business in a more business like manner than usual. Every member was present.

The first matter was a communication from the board of education, requesting that a sewer be placed at their disposal to carry off the waste water from Central building. It was referred to the improvement committee. Then came the appointment of a day officer by Mayor Jones. Five names were presented as follows: Johnson, Gossett, Davis, Mc-Bane and Flowers. There was a warm discussion and a number of objections, but after Mayor Jones explained that Johnson headed the list, and was his first choice, the roll was called, and Johnson was elected at a salary of $35 per month.

A plat of the city was before council subject to their examination, and which they were expected to purchase, but they did not seem to be of that mind, and deferred the matter until the next meeting.

FAT MEN PLAY BALL.

Rain Interfered, but They Wanted a Game and Had It.

Rain did not prevent the fat men's game yesterday at the fair grounds. Liverpool and Wellsville were in the game for glory. The spasmodic showers only kept them cool, and had it not been for this the game would have proved a total failure, because they never could have stood the sun's warm rays. The great feature of the game was made up of hits—that is, the fats were hit, and not the ball. They lined up: Wellsville—Rayl, Snediker, Burchard, Mardis, Fitzpatrick, Fisher, Niles, Wilcoxon, Archer and Springer; East Liverpool—Marrow, Martin, Price, McGinnis, Fowler, Wolf, Stoffel, Pollock and Phillips. At the close of the game the score stood 11 to 17 in favor of Wellsville.

WILL HE ACCEPT?

Someone Seems to Know, but the Acceptance Is a Question.

Last evening it was stated, by those who seemed to know, that John Johnson would accept the position of day officer on the police force at a salary of $35 per month, but it was probably promised Mr. Johnson that he would be given the position of truant officer a little later on. Now it seems that this promise was made by councilmen who are supposed to be in a position to grant these things, but the question lies in their ability to deliver the goods. The last chief still holds the position, and no doubt will be slow in giving it up, particularly if the attitude of the board of education does not change.

A FRIENDLY LIFT.

It Tore Mr. Catterall's Trousers, But Took Him Over the Fence.

Dairyman Thomas Moores owns an animal with an unenviable reputation. William Catterall, employed on the farm, had occasion to enter the field where it is kept the other day, and neglecting the usual formality of carrying a gun for use in case he was attacked, was soon flying across the lot with the bull in hot pursuit. He reached the fence as the animal gave him a friendly lift from the rear. Catterall was not badly hurt, but when he touched the ground he realized that he sadly needed a pair of trousers.

Hare Hunting.

This branch of sport has a host of earnest supporters throughout the northern states and Canada, and many fine dogs are kept for the sole purpose of driving the white fellows. Some hunters use native foxhounds and crossbreds, such as are used to drive deer. Needless to say, the man who regularly hunts deer and hares will keep certain hounds for each kind of work. Hounds schooled to drive hares are a nuisance on a deer hunt, owing to their tendency to follow the lesser game when the greater is wanted. Smart harriers are excellent for hares, but perhaps the best dogs for the purpose are good sized beagles. These enterprising fellows are unexcelled as trailers and have fine voices, while they are just large enough to have the necessary speed. The very small beagles will trail enthusiastically and make fine music, but they are comparatively slow. Moreover, their short underpinning is not the best pattern for work in deep snow, in which the cream of the hunting is usually to be had. The very small beagle is a dear little dog, true, game and interesting, but he shows to best advantage on the trail of the cottontail.—Outing.

How He Gauged It.

"Johnnie," said the farmer, "go down in the cellar and draw a pitcher of that sweet cider. Take a candle with you."

"Don't need no candle," said Johnnie.

"Ah, my little man," said the minister, who was staying overnight, "you must have quite an accurate judgment to have filled the pitcher in the dark without running it over."

"Aw," said Johnnie, "it ain't no trick at all. When it got up to the first joint of my thumb, I stopped."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SPANISH GRANDEES.

They Constitute the Real Aristocracy of the Haughty Nation.

The real aristocracy of Spain is limited to the 243 grandees, many of them untitled, who enjoy innumerable privileges, including those of maintaining seated and covered in the presence of royalty and of access to the sovereign at all times. Admission to the grandeeza is exceedingly difficult to obtain, for it is necessary to prove a long line of blue-blooded ancestry, unsullied either on the paternal or on the maternal side by any plebeian strain. The ancient ceremony of conferring the grandeeza—this and the ceremony of inducting a peer to his seat in the house of lords constitute the only forms of investiture of nobles that survive in the old world—is termed an almohada and is exceedingly rare. Queen Christina has held but two since her husband's death; there were three during the reign of King Alfonso XII. One of the latter was witnessed by a writer in the New York Tribune, who thus describes it:

"It took place in the small throne-room of the royal palace at Madrid. The men of grandee rank were at the right of the dais and the women at the left. On the king exclaiming, 'Be seated!' they all took their places upon tabourets, or stools of carved wood, topped with large purple velvet cushions. Everybody else, such as the members of the diplomatic corps and of the royal household, remained standing. Then the doors at the farther end of the room opened, and, preceded by a herald and two chamberlains and accompanied by the two grandees acting as sponsors, the postulant for admission to the grandeeza appeared and approached the throne with three low obeisances. A tabouret, with purple cushion, having been brought and placed on the lowest of the steps leading up to the throne, the king commanded the candidate to be seated and thereupon addressed a few complimentary words to him, recalling the services of his family to the dynasty in bygone ages. Alfonso concluded his little speech by extending his hand to be kissed, at the same time directing him to take his place among the peers.

"Retiring backward from the royal presence, the newly fledged grandee was conducted by his sponsors to the side of the hall occupied by the ladies of the grandee rank, to whom he made a low bow, and then to that of the men, whom he saluted in the same manner. He thereupon put his hat upon his head, his example being instantly followed by every grandee present, who all remained covered until, his stool and cushion having been removed from the steps of the throne and placed beside those of his peers, he had seated himself thereon. This brought to a close the actual ceremony of almohada, which was rendered extraordinarily picturesque by the superb toilets of the women, by the gorgeous tabards of the royal heralds and by the brilliant uniforms of the generals, the court officials, the ministers of state, and, last, but not least, by those of the diplomats."

Idaho's Island Wonoes.

Henry lake is a beautiful body of water with an area of about 41 square miles and is situated on the dome of the continent in a depression in the Rocky mountains near Targees pass, Idaho. Henry lake is of no consequence itself, but it is the "home" of a most wonderful floating island, which is seen first on one side of the lake and then on the other. The island is about 300 feet in diameter and has for its basis a mat of roots and decayed vegetation sufficient to support large trees and a dense growth of underbrush. The edges of this floating island are thin, of course, but near the center it is several feet thick and of sufficient strength to support a good sized summer hotel, if some one could be found that would care to make such a venture. There is a good sized willow thicket near the center of the island, and scattered around among them are several dwarf pines and aspens. These trees catch the breeze which is continually blowing over this highly situated lake, and, acting as sails on a boat, move the 300 foot island hither and thither over the 40 square miles of water at their will. Old mountaineers who are well used to all kinds of queer things declare that the floating island of Henry lake is the most wonderful thing to be seen in the mountain regions of the United States.—St. Louis Republic.

How to Dispose of Bad Coins.

Tackleton—Some one gave me a bad coin yesterday, and I didn't know what to do with it.

Von Blumer—Couldn't you pass it?

Tackleton—Not for a long time. The first man I tried it on was a ticket clerk, and he refused it with scorn.

Von Blumer—Why didn't you try it on a chemist? Their profits are so great they're likely to be careless in money matters.

Tackleton—Oh, I did, but it wasn't any use. Then I tried to buy a newspaper with it, but the boy wouldn't have it. I went to buy a drink, but that wouldn't do. I was almost discouraged, old man.

Von Blumer—I should say you might have been. But you finally passed it, didn't you?

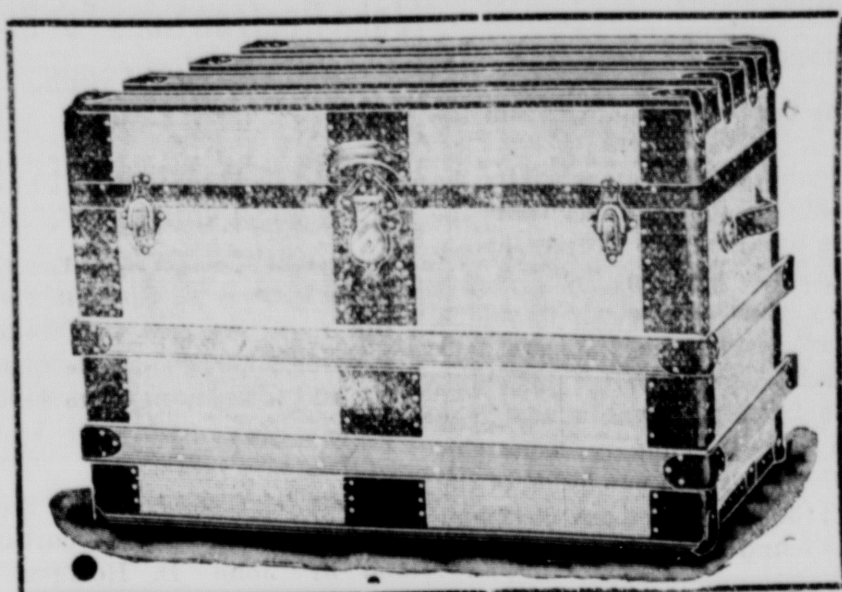

Tackleton (proudly)—Oh, yes!

Von Blumer—On whom?

Tackleton—On a friend of mine.

FEARING to stand upon the platform

CARRY SUNSHINE.

Carry sunshine into your life. You can do so if you are but willing. Give your friends and acquaintances a chance to enjoy it with you. A pleasant smile
or the cordial grasp of a hand will ofttimes drive away the shadows bearing
down upon and depressing your friend,
and let in upon him a ray of blessed sunshine and hope, without which he might
even descend into the valley of despair.
Carry sunshine in your life.

GOVERNOR BUSHNELL.

He has filled the position of chief executive of the great state of Ohio in a manner which has won him the hearty commendation of all conservative and law-abiding citizens. He is a safe man—one that it will do to tie to. He is a courageous man, having the courage of his convictions, and the best interests of this great commonwealth could not be placed in better hands. He has been honored with the nomination by the Republican party, and he will be elected by a much larger majority than the average politician imagines. Here's to you, Governor Bushnell, and may your shadow never grow less.

THE BIG ATTRACTION.

Bryan is coming. McLean and Chapman have signified their willingness to pay the price, and the only simon pure silverite, the original boy orator, will be here within a few weeks to argue in the cause of cheap money and present the claims of the District of Columbia on a part of the senatorial representation of Ohio. It's the last resort of the Democratic leaders. They have no issue, and apparently very few plans, but with a desperation which plainly shows the straits to which they have been reduced
they rush forward to grasp the Bryan
hand and plead for the Bryan voice.
That they have mistaken the power of the Bryan influence will appear later.

DON'T LIE.

The pious politician, as a rule, has no regard for the truth. He lies as easily as a spring shower descends upon the bosom of mother earth. He makes all sorts of promises to one of his henchmen, and immediately afterward, in conversation with a bosom friend, he gleefully gloats over the manner in which he "pulled the wool" down upon the eyes of his victim. He is simply a plain, every day liar. He imagines himself to be a power in the land, and really
believes that lying, deceit and low coun-
ing constitute what he terms diplomacy and statesmanship. The fellow even deceives himself and has not the shadow of a doubt that he is on the high road to political success. He fails to profit by the history of his kind and
class, which is so plain that all who run
may read. Truth is mighty and shall prevail. He apparently wins for a time;
but then comes the payday, and he is
hoist with his own petard, despised and held in contempt by every decent and self-respecting citizen. Don't lie. Tell the truth and stand by the truth. Honesty and honor will win in the long run. There is not a shadow of doubt respecting the matter.

Not Enough Money.

The amount necessary in order that a

John Hoefgen Sues For Hundreds of Thousands.

HE LOST BY THE FORECLOSURE

The Present Manager of the East Liverpool Street Railway Brings Suit Against the Old East Liverpool and Wellsville to Recover a Large Sum—He Claims That
He Has a Legal Right to $206,790.80.
A Cuyahoga County Case.

A suit for $206,790.80 has been commenced in common pleas court in Cleveland by John B. Hoefgen against the East Liverpool and Wellsville Street Railway company, Albert L.
Johnson, Sidney H. Short, C. E. Grover,
L. A. Russell, W. E. Bolton, Henry J.
Davies and W. J. McDaniel.

Mr. Hoefgen alleges that the East
Liverpool and Wellsville Street Railway
company was organized in November, 1891, to extend from Wellsville through East Liverpool in Columbiana county.
He avers that on the first of February, 1892, the company issued 150 bonds of $1,000 each to the Savings & Trust company, of Cleveland, and that these bonds were to become due on April 1, 1912, and that the bonds were to draw 6
per cent interest, to be paid semi-annually.

He further declares that these 250
bonds were secured by mortgages which are on record in the recorder's office of Columbiana county, and that an agreement to the effect that if at any time interest on a single bond remained unpaid 60 days after it was due, 25 per cent
of the stockholders would have the authority to declare all the bonds due;
that on April 1, 1895, interest on the bonds remained unpaid, and that the stockholders declared the bonds due and foreclosed the mortgages through the common pleas court of Columbiana
county.

Mr. Hoefgen declares that by the foreclosure he came into possession of 249
$1,000 bonds, for which he received but $319.80 each, making a total of $79,- 630.20, and he says that having sold the bonds for $249,000 there was due him the sum of $169,369.80.

Besides this sum he sues for interest,
amounting to $37,350 making a total of $206,790.80. The plaintiff asks that all the stockholders, whoever they may be,
be made responsible for the debt and
asks the court to ascertain from each
one his share of the debt, and that he be given judgment for its payment.

Mr. Hoefgen was not in the city today.

TWO CLASSES OF READERS

Those Who Like Dickens and Those Who Adore Thackeray.

"About 15 years ago readers used to be divided roughly into two classes—
those who 'liked Dickens' and those who
'adored Thackeray,'" writes the critic
Droch in The Ladies' Home Journal.
"Each class used to view the other with more or less contempt. Of the two the Thackeray people felt themselves considerably superior to the Dickens people.
There were not so many of them, for
one thing, and that in itself gave them
a feeling of exclusiveness (something like the attitude assumed by George Meredith's admirers of the present day).
But Thackeray's complete works for $3.99 rapidly abolished the aristocracy.
Artificially doled out not long count for
much with a great writer.

"You no doubt very soon found out
that in certain moods there was nothing
more satisfying to you than 'Pendennis,'
and at another time the best novel that
you ever read was 'David Copperfield.'
I have no doubt that in the long run
deep in your heart you will cherish a finer affection for the one than the other.
That is a matter of temperament and your surroundings. The one you like best fits best into your life as you are making it. You will discover that a change of scene or occupation often
brings you into sympathy with a writer whom you never before appreciated. A great sorrow will sometimes reveal George Eliot to you; a little journey in England will show you new beauties in Trollope; a wave of war feeling in Europe and people begin rereading Tolstoi's
'War and Peace.'"

Mysteries of Helium.

As further experiments are carried with the new gas called helium—which was recognized in the sun before it had been found on the earth—the more remarkable it appears. Many chemists believe it consists of two gases, yet they have not been able satisfactorily to divide it. Professor Ramsay, one of its discoverers, has failed in every attempt
to make it enter into a chemical combination. Lord Rayleigh has found that it possesses by far the lowest refractivity
ever observed in any gas, and surprise
is expressed at the astonishing distances
traversed by electric sparks in darting
through helium.

WORKING OUT THE GOLD.

Scenes and Conditions at the Klondike
Diggings.

An interesting letter telling of the recent trip of the steamer Excelsior to Alaska has been written by Captain J.
F. Higgins of the steamer to a friend in San Diego. He says:

"The word Klondike means deer river
and it is called Reindeer river on the charts. It empties into the Yukon 50 miles above the big river. Bonanza creek dumps into Klondike about two miles above the Yukon. El Dorado is a tributary of the Bonanza. There are numerous other creeks and tributaries,
the main river being 300 miles long.
The gold so far has been taken from Bonanza and El Dorado, both well named,
for the richness of the placers is truly marvelous. El Dorado, 30 miles long, is staked the whole length and as far as worked has paid. As each claim is 500 feet along the creek bed, there is 500,000 to the claim. So uniform has the output been that one miner who has an interest in three claims told me that if offered his choice he would toss up to decide.

"One of our passengers, who is taking $1,000 with him, has worked 100 feet
of his ground and refused $200,000 for the remainder and confidently expects to clear up $400,000 and more. He has
in a bottle $212 from one pan of dirt.
His pay dirt, while being washed, averaged $250 an hour to each man shoveling in. Two others of our miners who worked their own claims cleared up $6,000 from the day's washing. There is about 15 feet of dirt above bedrock,
the pay streak averaging from 4 to 6 feet, which is tunneled out while the ground is frozen. Of course the ground taken out is thawed by building
fires, and when the thaw comes and water rushes in they set their sluices and wash the dirt. Two of our fellows thought a small bird in the hand worth
a large one in the bush and sold their claims for $45,000, getting $4,500
down, the remainder to be paid in monthly installments of $10,000 each.
The purchasers had no more than $5,000 paid. They were 20 days thawing and getting out dirt. Then there was no water to sluice with, but one fellow made a rocker and in 10 days took out the $10,000 for the first installment. So,
tunneling and rocking, they took out $40,000 before there was water to sluice
with.

"Of course these things read like the story of Aladdin, but fiction is not in it with facts at Klondike. The ground located and prospected can be worked out in a few years, but there is still an immense territory untouched, and the laboring man who can get there with one year's provisions will have a better chance to make a stake than in any other part of the world."—San Diego Times.

Drill with Magnetic Clamping.

The use of magnets for lifting purposes and as a substitute for clamps is rapidly extending. With the old process holes have to be bored in masses of metal in all sorts of odd and inconvenient places and at angles, so that
very often it is necessary to rig clamps
for holding the drilling machine to its work. The application of the portable electric motor for this purpose was a long step in advance, and this method
has been of great service in dealing with the armor of the new cruisers.
When a portable drill, however, is coupled with a magnetic clamping device, the ideal conditions are realized.

Dr. Louis Bell recently described a drill of this pattern. It consists of a motor and its worm driven drill, together with a universal mounting of four adjustable feet. When placed fairly upon a ship's plate or other mass of iron, these drills have an adhesive force of nearly half a ton each. The drill can then be adjusted and clamped by the simple turning of a key, and it will
then bore holes up to an inch in diameter as fast as it can be safely worked.

The White Whale Was Drowned.

The white whale at the aquarium,
New York, died the other night from a curious cause. Superintendent Bean found a long piece of a large eel protruding from the whale's blowhole, the valve of which was so wedged by the
eel that the hole could not be closed.
Dr. Bean thinks that the whale had overloaded its stomach with the live
eels, which were vomited in the tank
with it for it to eat, and vomited, part of the contents of the stomach being forced
through the nasal passage into the blowhole. As the latter could not be closed,
water must have been drawn through it
into the lungs every time the whale
"sounded." Dr. Bean is confident that the lungs are full of water, and that the whale was literally drowned. The body was taken to the American Museum of Natural History, where it will be mounted after an autopsy is performed.

Family Lawyer—H'm! Do you think that's quite fair?

make some kind of reparation to Royal
for allowing his mother to give him
such a crack jaw name.—London Tit-

QUEEREST OF WILLS.

ERTY TO HIS CREATOR.

He Expected to Be Translated to Heaven
at a Certain Date—Not Having Realized
His Anticipated Flight Upward He Left
His Estate to His Wife.

Probably the only will ever written in which the Lord is made one of the chief devisees is on record in the office
of the clerk of the Wayne county court, Kentucky. It is the last will and testament of J. A. J. Mickel, a well to do but rather eccentric farmer who died
not far from the town of Monticello
about three years ago.

The will was made and written
the hand of the deceased on the 9th
day of December, 1878, under most peculiar circumstances and conditions.
According to the history of the case, as related by some of the most reliable
people of Wayne county, Mr. Mickel, who was a devout church member and
close student of the Bible, concluded that Nov. 13, 1878, he was to be taken up to heaven—translated—like the prophet of old. The language of the will would indicate that Mr. Mickel expected the end of the world to come on that day, but in his conversations with
his friends and members of his family
he left the impression that the phenomenon was a matter personal to himself.
They ridiculed the old gentleman's
vagaries, but he would not be laughed
out of his ideas and made full and complete preparations for his transit from earth to heaven. On the 9th of the following month he made and recorded the
following will:

Now, in accordance with the dictates of my conscience as a sane man, this day being the 9th day of November, 1878, I do now make
and draw with my own hand this, my last
will and testament, agreeable to the circumstances hereinafter mentioned—to wit:

First, if, according to the calculations from
the Bible, the day of translation occurs on the 13th of the present month, my will is that all of my possessions be bequeathed to my wife,
for her support, provided that I am found worthy to be translated without her. But if we are both found worthy and pass away and leave all, I then bequeath all my possessions
to him who gave them to me, excepting all
the dues from all people to me of every description, such as notes, accounts, loans, or
any thing in their hands belonging to me,
which I freely forgive them, for Christ's sake.
Given under my hand and seal on the date
above mentioned. J. A. J. MICKEL.

Mr. Mickel, having made his will
and completed all other arrangements
for his departure, calmly awaited the day for his translation. Old citizens
say that the 13th of November, when it came around, was one of the gloomiest,
most threatening and uncanny ever seen. The clouds hung low and heavy and there was an ominous stillness in
the air which seemed to presage the supernatural. Some of the superstitious who had been somewhat impressed with Mr. Mickel's predictions really began to look for something terrible to happen. Mr. Mickel, however, was disappointed. The Lord was not ready for him, and the old gentleman remained on earth nearly 15 years longer. Whether or not his disappointment caused him
to take up a dislike for his Creator or whether he changed his mind about his wife unknown, but some time prior to his death he wrote a codicil to his will cutting his Creator out of everything. The codicil is as follows:

This is my first codicil: As my wife is the only other person interested in this matter, I will that she, being fully acquainted with my
affairs, be appointed executrix of my estate,
to manage it herself, with the aid of the witnesses hereto, for her support through life.
Written with my own hand, but not so lately
as formerly, Aug. 21, 1893.

She Asks $5,000 For Being Struck.

Ethel M. Harris, a young colored woman, has instituted suit in the circuit court, Parkersburg, W. Va., against General C. C. Watts, recently the Democratic candidate for governor, for $5,- 000 damages for assault. The bill has not been filed, so the exact charges cannot be given. General Watts was seen in regard to the matter and said that the girl, who was a domestic in his house, had struck his 7-year-old son a severe blow on the arm with a stick.
Hearing of the matter he went into the kitchen to remonstrate with the girl,
who began to abuse him and threatened
to have him arrested if he touched her.

After listening to her defiance he slapped her with his open hand. Then the woman grabbed him by the legs and attempted to throw him. She did throw him against a window and broke the glass, and then in the scuffle a pan of milk was upset. The woman let go and made a lunge for him, when he struck her twice. General Watts says he will fight the case and has refused to give a cent in compromise.—Exchange.

Each Toe Was Valued at $408.

A New York supreme court jury recently appraised little Ruth Lansing's toes at $408.

The child's right foot was caught under the wheels of a Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad company's trolley car last summer, and four toes had to be amputated.

The jury awarded the Brooklyn girl
$1,631.

Mysteries of Helium.

As further experiments are carried with the new gas called helium—which was recognized in the sun before it had been found on the earth—the more remarkable it appears. Many chemists believe it consists of two gases, yet they have not been able satisfactorily to divide it. Professor Ramsay, one of its discoverers, has failed in every attempt to make it enter into a chemical combination. Lord Rayleigh has found that it possesses by far the lowest refractivity ever observed in any gas, and surprise is expressed at the astonishing distances traversed by electric sparks in darting through helium.

WORKING OUT THE GOLD.

Scenes and Conditions at the Klondike Diggings.

An interesting letter telling of the recent trip of the steamer Excelsior to Alaska has been written by Captain J. P. Higgins of the steamer to a friend in San Diego. He says:

"The word Klondike means deer river and it is called Reindeer river on the charts. It empties into the Yukon 50 miles above the big river. Bonanza creek dumps into Klondike about two miles above the Yukon. El Dorado is a tributary of the Bonanza. There are numerous other creeks and tributaries, the main river being 300 miles long. The gold so far has been taken from Bonanza and El Dorado, both well named, for the richness of the placers is truly marvelous. El Dorado, 30 miles long, is staked the whole length and as far as worked has paid. As each claim is 500 feet along the creek bed, there is 500,000 to the claim. So uniform has the output been that one miner who has an interest in three claims told me that if offered his choice he would toss up to decide.

"One of our passengers, who is taking $1,000 with him, has worked 100 feet of his ground and refused $200,000 for the remainder and confidently expects to clear up $400,000 and more. He has in a bottle $212 from one pan of dirt. His pay dirt, while being washed, averaged $250 an hour to each man shoveling in. Two others of our miners who worked their own claims cleared up $6,000 from the day's washing. There is about 15 feet of dirt above bedrock, the pay streak averaging from 4 to 6 feet, which is tunneled out while the ground is frozen. Of course the ground taken out is thawed by building fires, and when the thaw comes and water rushes in they set their sluices and wash the dirt. Two of our fellows thought a small bird in the hand worth a large one in the bush and sold their claims for $45,000, getting $4,500 down, the remainder to be paid in monthly installments of $10,000 each. The purchasers had no more than $5,000 paid. They were 20 days thawing and getting out dirt. Then there was no water to sluice with, but one fellow made a rocker and in 10 days took out the $10,000 for the first installment. So, tunneling and rocking, they took out $40,000 before there was water to sluice with.

"Of course these things read like the story of Aladdin, but fiction is not in it with facts at Klondike. The ground located and prospected can be worked out in a few years, but there is still an immense territory untouched, and the laboring man who can get there with one year's provisions will have a better chance to make a stake than in any other part of the world."—San Diego Times.

Drill with Magnetic Clamping.

The use of magnets for lifting purposes and as a substitute for clamps is rapidly extending. With the old process holes have to be bored in masses of metal in all sorts of odd and inconvenient places and at angles, so that very often it is necessary to rig clamps for holding the drilling machine to its work. The application of the portable electric motor for this purpose was a long step in advance, and this method has been of great service in dealing with the armor of the new cruisers. When a portable drill, however, is coupled with a magnetic clamping device, the ideal conditions are realized.

Dr. Louis Bell recently described a drill of this pattern. It consists of a motor and its worm driven drill, together with a universal mounting of feet adjustable feet. When placed fairly upon a ship's plate or other mass of iron, these drills have an adhesive force of nearly half a ton each. The drill can then be adjusted and clamped by the simple turning of a key, and it will then bore holes up to an inch in diameter as fast as it can be safely worked. —Engineering Magazine.

The White Whale Was Drowned.

The white whale at the aquarium, New York, died the other night from a curious cause. Superintendent Bean found a long piece of a large eel protruding from the whale's blowhole, the valve of which was so wedged by the eel that the hole could not be closed. Dr. Bean thinks that the whale had overloaded its stomach with the live eels, which were kept in the tank with it for it to eat, and vomited, part of the contents of the stomach being forced through the nasal passage into the blowhole. As the latter could not be closed, water must have been drawn through it into the lungs every time the whale "sounded." Dr. Bean is confident that the lungs are full of water, and that the whale was literally drowned. The body was taken to the American Museum of Natural History, where it will be mounted after an autopsy is performed. —New York Tribune.

Do you think that's quite fair? John Butts, Sr.—Yes. I want to make some kind of reparation to Royal for allowing his mother to give him such a crack jaw name. —London Tit-Bits.

QUEEREST OF WILLS.

He Expected to Be Translated to Heaven at a Certain Date—Not Having Realized His Anticipated Flight Upward He Left His Estate to His Wife.

Probably the only will ever written in which the Lord is made one of the chief devisees is on record in the office of the clerk of the Wayne county court, Kentucky. It is the last will and testament of J. A. J. Mickel, a well to do but rather eccentric farmer who died not far from the town of Monticello about three years ago.

The will was made and written the hand of the deceased on the 9th day of December, 1878, under most peculiar circumstances and conditions. According to the history of the case, as related by some of the most reliable people of Wayne county, Mr. Mickel, who was a devout church member and close student of the Bible, concluded that Nov. 13, 1878, he was to be taken up to heaven—translated—like the prophet of old. The language of the will would indicate that Mr. Mickel expected the end of the world to come on that day, but in his conversations with his friends and members of his family he left the impression that the phenomenon was a matter personal to himself. They ridiculed the old gentleman's vagaries, but he would not be laughed out of his ideas and made full and complete preparations for his transit from earth to heaven. On the 9th of the fated month he made and recorded the following will:

Now, in accordance with the dictates of my conscience as a sane man, this day being the 9th day of November, 1878, I do now make and draw with my own hand this, my last will and testament, agreeable to the circumstances hereinafter mentioned—to wit:

First, if, according to the calculations from the Bible, the day of translation occurs on the 13th of the present month, my will is that all of my possessions be bequeathed to my wife, for her support, provided that I am found worthy to be translated without her. But if we are both found worthy and pass away and leave all, I then bequeath all my possessions to him who gave them to me, excepting all the dues from all people to me of every description, such as notes, accounts, loans, or anything in their hands belonging to me, which I freely forgive them, for Christ's sake.

Given under my hand and seal on the date above mentioned.

J. A. J. MICKEL.

Mr. Mickel, having made his will and completed all other arrangements for his departure, calmly awaited the day for his translation. Old citizens say that the 13th of November, when it came around, was one of the gloomiest, most threatening and uncanny ever seen. The clouds hung low and heavy and there was an ominous stillness in the air which seemed to presage the supernatural. Some of the superstitious who had been somewhat impressed with Mr. Mickel's predictions really began to look for something terrible to happen. Mr. Mickel, however, was disappointed. The Lord was not ready for him, and the old gentleman remained on earth nearly 15 years longer. Whether or not his disappointment caused him to take up a dislike for his Creator or whether he changed his mind about his wife unknown, but some time prior to his death he wrote a codicil to his will cutting his Creator out of everything. The codicil is as follows:

This is my first codicil: As my wife is the only other person interested in this matter, I will that she, being fully acquainted with my affairs, be appointed executrix of my estate, to manage it herself, with the aid of the witnesses hereto, for her support through life.

Written with my own hand, but not so steady as formerly, Aug. 21, 1893.

She Asks $5,000 For Being Struck.

Ethel M. Harris, a young colored woman, has instituted suit in the circuit court, Parkersburg, W. Va., against General C. C. Watts, recently the Democratic candidate for governor, for $5,000 damages for assault. The bill has not been filed, so the exact charges cannot be given. General Watts was seen in regard to the matter and said that the girl, who was a domestic in his house, had struck his 7-year-old son a severe blow on the arm with a stick. Hearing of the matter he went into the kitchen to remonstrate with the girl, who began to abuse him and threatened to have him arrested if he touched her.

After listening to her defiance he slapped her with his open hand. Then the woman grabbed him by the legs and attempted to throw him. She did throw him against a window and broke the glass, and then in the scuffle a pan of milk was upset. The woman let go and made a lunge for him, when he struck her twice. General Watts refused to give a cent in compromise. —Exchange.

Each Toe Was Valued at $408.

A New York supreme court jury recently appraised little Ruth Lansing's toes at $408.

The child's right foot was caught under the wheels of a Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad company's trolley car last summer, and four toes had to be amputated.

The jury awarded the Brooklyn girl $1,631.

THESE MEN MET HERE

Then There Were Some Arrests in Pittsburg,

AND A CONSPIRACY DEVELOPED

Serious Charges Made Against Them by a Herr's Island Lumber Dealer, Who Claims He Has Been Paying Money For a Number of Years—After Bogus Letters.

The authorities of Pittsburg believe they have unearthed an interesting conspiracy in which this city seems to have figured as a meeting place of the alleged conspirators.

Joseph and James Doyle, brothers, and C. H. Rogers were the defendants, and E. J. Crawford the prosecutor.

Crawford made the information on behalf of his father, John Crawford, a lumber dealer, of Herr's island, who when placed on the stand, gave some startling testimony. He said he had known the Doyles for six years and in that time had given them $2,000 for various services rendered. Two years ago James Doyle told him that William Ahlers, a lumber dealer of Allegheny, had a spite against him, and intended ruining him socially and financially. Doyle claimed Mr. Ahlers had a bundle of letters and a lot of documents about the moral life of Mr. Crawford, and intended having them printed to ruin him. As Mr. Ahlers and Crawford were good friends, the latter could not see why Ahlers wanted to ruin him, but when Doyle agreed to get the letters and other papers for money, he was given $50 for expenses. Doyle claimed Lee Woodruff had collected the evidence held by Mr. Ahlers, and he would also have to be bought off. Ten days later Doyle called on Mr. Crawford, and said he would take $100 to fix Woodruff, and he got the cash. Again Doyle called and said Mr. Ahlers wanted $200 more to keep quiet, and the cash for that purpose was paid. Then Woodruff was supposed to offer $350 for the letters, and to keep him from getting possession of them Doyle extracted the $350 from Mr. Crawford, who was to meet Doyle in East Liverpool, where the letters would be turned over to him.

Crawford met Doyle in East Liverpool, and after spending two days in the place they agreed to return to Pittsburg on a certain train. Just as the train was pulling out of the station, Doyle rushed up and handed Mr. Crawford a sealed envelope, which he said contained the letters and papers. Doyle did not board the train, but came home later. The envelope was opened on the train by Mr. Crawford, and it contained a few sheets of blank paper, but no letters.

Two days later Doyle called on Mr. Crawford and told him a pitiful tale of how Woodruff had buncoed him out of the $350, and was awfully surprised when told of the contents of the envelope. Doyle again claimed Woodruff had buncoed him, and that he would get the letters anyway. He said Woodruff was in Cincinnati, and that for $50 expense money he could go and get the letters and return. He got the $50 and went to Cincinnati, and immediately telegraphed to Mr. Crawford for $300 to buy Woodruff. The telegram requested that the identification of Doyle be waived by the company, and at Mr. Crawford's request it was.

Several days later Doyle appeared before Mr. Crawford with a bundle of letters and papers and an affidavit. The letters were all written on pink paper, in a girl's hand, and were on half sheets. The affidavit was written on two sheets of dirty old paper, and fastened with brass clasp pins. It started out with, "These instruments witness my true knowledge of the Crawford case," and was signed by "James Grubs, a notary of Cincinnati, O." The letters were all signed "W. A.," and were unfit for publication.

Then Doyle changed his field of operations to Braddock. One day Crawford got a letter from a woman asking for cash with the statement that he would be charged with an offense if the money did not come. He paid no attention to the letter, and was arrested, but when he appeared before the justice he found he had not been sued and a bogus constable had made the arrest. The Doyles claimed they were responsible for clearing him of the charge. The testimony also showed that he had paid them at other times.

William Ahlers asked to be sworn, and stated that he had known of the matter and was anxious to see the Doyles punished. The men were bound over to court in the sum of $3,000 each.

Inquiry in the city today failed to find any one who knew anything of the case.

A Petition in Error in the Robison Case.

TRANSCRIPT BEING PREPARED

Judge Young Has Decided to Push the Matter a Little Farther, and Believes That the Circuit Court Will Finally Settle It—Robison's Friends Not Active.

LISBON, Aug. 17.—[Special]—Preparations are being made for the next move in the Robison matter, Judge Young having decided to let the circuit court pass upon some phases of the case.

Miss Alice Glenn, court stenographer, is at present engaged on a transcript of the proceedings, and when it is done a petition in error will be filed with Clerk McNutt. Circuit court will meet the last week in September, and long before that time the matter will be prepared. Judge Young would not today give out the points which will make the petition interesting, and stated that so far as he knew Robison's friends have not interested themselves farther in the case.

The judge believes the case will be finally disposed of by circuit court.

John Manley, of Salineville, has sued the Pennsylvania railroad company for $30. On June 27, Manley alleges he was driving over a bridge of the company and the animal fell through.

George W. Meredith has entered suit in common pleas court to recover $600 on a promissory note given him by John Bauman.

STRIKING MINERS

Are In Town Today Seeking Cash Donations.

James Patterson and James Watkins, striking miners from Yorkville, Jefferson county, are in the city soliciting aid for the people of their little village. The men have been out since the strike was inaugurated, and, although they have manifested no disposition to return to work until the difference is settled, some of them and their families are actually suffering.

The committee comes here armed with the best of recommendations, not only from the union they represent, but from the mayor of Tiltonville. They also have a letter from President Hughes, of the Brotherhood. They have met with excellent success in the city, and expect to return to their homes bearing with them substantial evidences that East Liverpool sympathizes with their cause.

ONLY TWO CASES.

A Short Hearing at City Hall This Morning.

Only one arrest was made last night, but the hearing this morning was interesting.

Mr. Grey, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, was fined $6.60. He left security for its payment and was turned loose.

Officer Woods arrested Charles Loomis last evening for being drunk and fighting in Sixth street. At the hearing he told the mayor he was getting the best of it, then the mayor said $6.60, which he paid. The only person now in the coup is Pat Monagan, and he is acting city janitor.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

Will Be Made Tomorrow Evening For Labor Day.

Trades council will meet tomorrow evening. The session will be an important one, as arrangements will be made for the Labor day celebration, and all local unions will report the prizes they will offer, while the delegates will report the number of members in their local in order that the committee may have badges printed. There are also some delegates to be seated.

HAVE A MANAGER NOW

The Next Thing Is the Selection of a Name.

RUGBY PLAYERS ARE READY

Lisbon's Ball Team Has Disbanded and Our Players Are Coming Home—The Rovers Will Choose a Manager—No Game Next Labor Day.

There was a good attendance last evening at the Rugby football meeting. Messrs Wheatley, Waggoner and Herbert were appointed a committee to select a name for the eleven and report at the next meeting. John Rose was elected manager, and will at once equip the team. The players will receive a percentage of the net receipts at the end of the season. After appointing the president, vice president and secretary to act as an auditing committee the meeting adjourned.

The Lisbon ball team has disbanded, and it is probable the Liverpool players will arrive home in a few days. Lynch, Cartwright and Kennedy were to have played with Salineville today, but did not leave, owing to the new arrangements at Lisbon. An effort will be made to reorganize the team.

The Rovers will meet this evening for the purpose of electing a manager.

An endeavor is being made to have a Rugby game Labor day, between Liverpool and Wellsville. It will probably not succeed, as the weather will be too warm.

How the Crescents have any claim to the championship of the Ohio valley is a mystery to all. They have not met a team this season except on their own grounds and are seemingly afraid to leave home. They have no desire to let Liverpool play them another game as they realize their team would suffer defeat by a large score.

HE FOUGHT FOR CUBA

And Now Wants to Sell Cigars to Help the Cause.

A tall, well-dressed stranger entered Clerk Hanley's office at city hall this morning, and said that he was a Cuban who had fought for the island, but was now seeking to aid the island in another way. He wanted permission to sell cigars in the city, the proceeds to be used in helping the patriots. He also claimed to have two brothers at present with the insurgent army.

The clerk listened attentively to the story, and then referred the stranger to Mayor Gilbert, who happened to be out.

A POTTERY FIRE.

It Was Almost Out When the Department Arrived.

An overheated kiln at the Cartwright plant caused a small fire early this morning. When Watchman Hoyt discovered the fire he pulled box 72 and then went to the scene and turned the hose on the flames. When the department arrived the fire was almost extinguished. The only part of the place that was damaged was the roof surrounding the kiln. The loss is covered by insurance but will not amount to over $20.

NO MORE AMUSEMENT

For the People Who Laugh When Dogs Kill Rats.

Sanitary Policeman Burgess is determined that the streets shall be kept free from dead rats. He says that it is the habit of some people to take a trap full of rats into the street, then turn the rodents loose to be killed by dogs. After the trap is empty the rats are left lying in the street. In a case like this the owner of the dog is liable, and he will be prosecuted.

Proof Against Snake Poison.

Recent experiments have proved that animals may be rendered artificially immune from snake poison. Large animals destined to produce antivenomous serum are injected from the outset with gradually increasing quantities of the venom of the cobra mixed with diminishing quantities of 1 to 60 solution of hypochlorite of lime. When an animal has acquired a sufficient immunity, the venoms from a large number of different species of snakes are injected. The treatment must last at least 15 months before the serum is sufficiently active to be used for the purpose of treatment. A large number of animals have been vaccinated by this method at the Pasteur institute at Lille during the past three years.

Came From Cleveland.

J. J. Groenwold, of Cleveland, arrived in the city, last evening. He has taken a position with Professor Nowling.

Large animals destined to produce antivenomous serum are injected from the outset with gradually increasing quantities of the venom of the cobra mixed with diminishing quantities of 1 to 60 solution of hypochlorite of lime. When an animal has acquired a sufficient immunity, the venoms from a large number of different species of snakes are injected. The treatment must last at least 15 months before the serum is sufficiently active to be used for the purpose of treatment. A large number of animals have been vaccinated by this method at the Pasteur institute at Lille during the past three years.

The Time Is Short.

The question of the hour is, are you in the market for the best line of clothing in America? We must sell this stock at some low price. We have a customer for our stock when reduced to a certain point.

We are nearing that point very rapidly therefore, we say again the time is short, and if you are needing a spring suit, now is your opportunity to purchase at less price than manufacturer's price. Remember all is for sale, stock, fixtures and lease. All must go quickly at some price, as we are positively retiring from the business, and anxious to do so as quickly as possible. We say you can get prices of us that no firm in the state of Ohio can offer. Don't delay. This is an important matter for you.

Mothers, bring your boys. Buy Suits for them at lowest prices ever named in the city.

A NEW COUNTERFEIT

Three Months Ago Turned Up
In This County.

IT'S A DANGEROUS IMITATION

Government Officials Knew Nothing of It.
Detectives Now Running It Down—Not Long Ago a Bad Bill Was Presented
at a Local Bank.

It transpires that the counterfeit bill which has been circulating in this part of the state is a brand new one of which none of the detective agencies, or even the government have had any information. The first lot of them were worked off in a neighboring county not less than a week ago.

It is a $2 bill, but is not made from the same plate as the ones that have been heretofore considered dangerous. The work on the bill is good, but like all other bogus money there is a slight defect, and none but an expert would be able to detect it. One of the ears on the vignette is tapered to a sharp point, while on the genuine it is round. Instead of having the signature of "E. H. Nebeker" attached as the old Windom bill had, the name of "D. H. Morgan" is used. A call was made on a local bank today to find if any had been offered, but none as yet have turned up. The banks in the meantime are keeping a lookout for it, as it is almost three months since a bogus bill has appeared in this city.

A MATTER OF JEALOUSY.

Queen City Officials Believe They Understand It.

A prominent riverman stated to the NEWS REVIEW today, that the officers of the Queen City declare the officers of the Bonanza are jealous of the new packet, and in that lies the prosecution recently entered. The Queen can easily do 13 to 15 miles an hour against the current, something the Bonanza has not yet attained, although the boat held the Cincinnati-Wheeling record until the Queen appeared. The incident which resulted in a reprimand for the pilot of the Queen would have ended in a collision had it not been for his endeavor to prevent it.

HARVEST HOME PICNIC.

A Very Pleasing Program Has Been Arranged.

The eleventh annual Columbiana county harvest home picnic will be held at Shelton's Grove Saturday, Aug. 28. The picnic in the past has been one of the most enjoyable of the season, and this year a very fine program has been arranged, including addresses by B. F. Boyle, of Salem, and J. B. Watson, of Cleveland.

Ohio's Next Governor.

How many votes will he receive? This is the question that the Dayton Spice Mills Co., of Dayton, Ohio, is asking of its many customers, and $5,000 in cash prizes will be paid to those who send in the most correct answer.

These liberal cash gifts are offered in connection with the sale of the firm's famous products—Jersey and O. R. Brands of Standard and High Grade Roasted Coffee.

There is no limit to the number of guesses you will be allowed to submit, providing you comply with the conditions of the Dayton Spice Mills Co.'s ad in another column of this paper. Your grocer will give you a circular describing the contest, or write directly to the firm.

On the River.

The rains in the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys will raise the Ohio about a foot before midnight. At noon today the marks showed a stage of 4.8 feet of water. Passed up—Crusier, Charles Clark, Sam Brown, Queen City. Down—Keystone State and Ben Hur.

The Kanawha was inspected at Pittsburgh yesterday and will be down on her regular trip this evening. This boat has not missed a trip this season, and has a record for low water.

The Sam Brown tied up near Brown's island last night, and this morning sent her crew of 25 men to Pittsburgh on the first train.

Now on Duty.

Conductor H. B. Scott has resumed his run between Pittsburgh and Bellaire. He has been off for several months, and while away the run was being made by Conductor E. A. Gerren.

Train Late.

The train due in this city at 8 o'clock last evening, was 20 minutes late. It was delayed a short distance this side of Alliance by a drag.

Klondyke

The Land of Golden Nuggets.

JOSEPH LADUE,

the new Bonanza King of the Klondyke Gold Regions, gives the facts. His book reads like "The Arabian Nights," BUT Joseph Ladue KNOWS whereof he writes. He was the first man on the spot when the first gold was discovered last August, 1896. He located one rich claim and immediately purchased twelve others at a low price before their value was known. He has refused $100,000 for any ONE of these claims, as they are rich with virgin gold nuggets, beyond the dream of avarice. Joseph Ladue then

Established Dawson City

at the mouth of the Klondyke and Yukon Rivers, by erecting the first house in the region in September, one month after the gold was first discovered. He bought 178 acres from the government on the city site where his town lots 150x50 are now selling for $5,000 each.

Mr. Ladue was fortunate enough to be successful in his trading post investments to have on hand ample capital to carry out his plans, and there is no man living who is better posted on Alaska and the great North West Territories than Mr. Joseph Ladue. He has just returned from that country to his old home in Schuler Falls, N. Y., where he passed a large portion of his boyhood and early manhood. Mr. Ladue left his home nearly twenty years ago to seek his fortune in the west going first to the Black Hills, where he was successful in gold mining, thence to Arizona and the Pacific coast and finally located in Alaska and the northwest, where he has covered almost the entire country since 1882. Mr. Ladue is a typical pioneer: strong, hardy and resolute—a man of iron as one must needs be to go through the hardships he has and come out with a constitution unbroken and unimpaired at about the age of 43. Mr. Ladue has not only worked his muscles to good advantage to himself with the result of an abundance of the world's goods, far beyond the dreams of men, but he has evidently all this time been closely observing the conditions of that strange country—the Yukon Valley—which has so suddenly become one of the great centers upon which human interest throughout the world is focussed.

When the wonderful stories began to come down from the Yukon country it was naturally concluded that it was at least half exaggeration. That any such amount of gold could be taken in so short a time from a country like that under the most most unfavorable conditions was held to be incredible. But when the great bags of virgin gold began to be poured out upon mint counters in San Francisco under the eyes of the whole world (for modern journalism does this, annihilating time and space) people began to wonder and the wonder grew day by day as the real facts were disclosed, and now people who are well informed as to the facts declare that half the truth has not been told of the golden treasures of the Yukon Valley.

As we have already said, there is no man today alive who knows more about this wonderful country than does Mr. Ladue. What makes his talk of it especially interesting and reliable is the fact that his knowledge of it is practical. It has not been gained from hearsay nor from desultory visits made now and then at certain favorable seasons of the year, but from steady living there through the long summer days and the long winter nights, year in and year out for 15 years, where he now owns the best mining claims on the Klondyke and its tributaries.

In presenting his book to the public we do so knowing that it is by an authority on the subject of which he writes. His first work entitled

"Klondyke Nuggets"

is a brief description of the new gold regions, and anyone desiring authentic information should not fail to avail themselves of our

ELECTED THE OFFICERS

Business Men Back of East End Land Company.

DOCTOR CALHOUN IS PRESIDENT

The Pottery Is an Assured Fact, But a Few Preliminaries Must Be Passed Through Before the Work of Construction Will Be Commenced.

The stockholders of the East End Land company met last evening in the office of Attorney M. J. McGarry and elected the following directors: Doctor Calhoun, S. C. Williams, S. J. Crawford, T. V. Milligan, F. A. Sebring, C. A. Ferguson, John H. Mountford, Alex McGraw and M. J. McGarry.

The directors proceeded at once to organize by electing Doctor Calhoun, president; Alex McGraw, vice president; T. V. Milligan, treasurer and M. J. McGarry, secretary.

The plans of the company were thoroughly discussed, and this afternoon the directors viewed the ground for the purpose of platting it to the best advantage.

The pottery is now an assured fact, but there are yet some few arrangements to be made before work will be commenced.

MOVING HOME.

Spring Grove Is Fast Being Depopulated.

The population of Spring Grove is rapidly decreasing. Yesterday the families of Rev. J. S. Reager, Fred Timmons, J. E. Brookes and George Sebring moved home, and today James Blue and family will depart.

The ladies of the ground met yesterday afternoon at the dormitory, and elected the following officers: President, Mrs. J. E. Catlett, Wellsville; vice presidents, Mrs. Rand, Wellsville, Mrs. R. L. Herbert, East Liverpool; secretary, Mrs. T. R. Andrews, Wellsville; treasurer, Mrs. Benjamin Harker, East Liverpool. An executive committee and a committee to have charge of the dormitory were appointed. The association has been very successful, and the report read by the secretary shows a good sized balance on the right side of the ledger. The ladies have done a great deal of work this year to make the Grove a financial success, and too much credit cannot be given them.

The ball game last evening was hotly contested and resulted in a tie, 9 to 9.

RATIFIED THE ACTION

And Professor O. S. Reed Will Remain in the City.

The official board of the Christian church last night ratified the action of a large majority of the members of the congregation, and by a vote of 10 to three decided that Prof. O. S. Reed, the present pastor, should remain. It is stated upon the highest authority that Professor Reed will accept the decision and continue in his work.

Pretty printing.

OUR work is not always perfect; but nine times out of ten, and six days in the week, we are doing the best work in eastern Ohio. We're equipped for it.

AN ARGUMENT:—There are eggs and eggs; the egg of yesterday looks, feels, measures and weighs like the egg of last month, but there's a slight difference in another respect, and that difference is worth money. It's just so with printing; the difference between the good work and poor is slight to the unpracticed discernment, but it's a difference that counts every time. It costs money, but it makes more—it changes the printing bills from an expense to an investment.

TO OUR BUSINESS MEN

When You Want Job Work, Come and See Us.

With thousands of dollars invested in our job department, we have the most complete job office in all this section of Ohio, and we simply defy competition. The NEWS REVIEW has honestly won the verdict, from our business men, of turning out the finest job work in the city. We buy material in large lots, and pay spot cash for the same, and, for the same material, we defy competition in prices. If you want cheap material, we will furnish it to you. If you want fine material, we have it always on hand. We pay our skilled workmen the highest prices paid the craft in East Liverpool, HIGHER THAN THE UNION DEMANDS and no union office can underbid us. The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof. Let us give you an estimate.

FIRST GOLD IN ALASKA.

Natives Used It to Ransom Captive Friends.

Captain Harry Meiggs, U. S. A. (retired), who is said to be a relative of the man who built Meiggs wharf, San Francisco, away back in the fifties, tells a wonderful tale of the discovery of gold in Alaska in the latter part of the sixties. He was on duty in that country at that time at a point near Juneau, and says that even in those early days great lumps of gold were exhibited by the natives.

"Often natives from the interior would come down wearing necklaces made of nuggets picked up from the creeks in the interior," he said the other day. "At one time there was a tribe which had been conquered by another and a penalty was exacted. Some of the conquered tribe came over the Chilkat pass with a certain amount of gold, which on being weighed was found to be short of the price demanded by the conquerors. Several chiefs were held as hostages while the remainder of the tribe was directed to cross the mountains and procure a sum sufficient to liberate the others. They were gone several months, and when they came back an amount more than needed to pay the ransom was brought in. No one could ascertain whence the money came, but from the direction in which they went and the length of time occupied in making the trip it was believed that they went many miles inland.

"I believe that these men went into the passes of the Klondike country and picked up by the crude means at their command enough gold to secure the amount needed to complete the ransom. It was a topic of discussion among those who were detailed on duty at that time, and many plans were laid to secure information relating to the location of the claims, but these Indians kept the matter secret and would never disclose where they derived their treasure. I believe that even so far back as 30 years ago they went into the country which is now exciting the attention of the whole world and obtained the money necessary to release their relatives."—San Francisco Chronicle.

An Ingenious Experiment.

Mr. Clarence Alva of St. Louis has thought of a little scheme which gives a very good idea of the manner in which the earth is kept in space. Mr. Alva says a person may get the right idea if he secures a couple of magnets and places them directly opposite each other so that the currents shall flow in opposite directions. They should be an inch or so from each other. The magnets should be rather strong and should be of the same size and strength. Then the experimenter should make a little sphere of paper or some light substance and fasten two pieces of steel or similar metal to the ball, the metals being almost exactly opposite. Then comes the work of placing the sphere in the exact center of the space between the two magnets. If the experimenter can do this, he will have the sphere remaining in the air without any visible means of support. It is quite a trick to get the thing in correct operation, but Mr. Alva says it can be done.

The Yellow Fever Microbe.

Dr. Sanarelli, discoverer of the bacillus of yellow fever, in the course of a lecture recently delivered in Montevideo, declared the dread disease to be due to a microbe, which had been named by him icteroid, and that it was rarely found either in the blood of yellow fever patients or in their bodies after death, as it easily disappeared. Furthermore, the isolation of the microbe was difficult, but bacteriological diagnosis was possible. Twenty-four hours' cultures in gelatin were recognizable without microscope. The microbe was very deadly for animals, producing, when experiments were made, a cyclic malady, with symptoms and lesions identical with those produced in men—namely, gastro-enteritis, hemorrhage, nephritis, uræmia and fatty degeneration of the liver, destroying the hepatic cell-like phosphorus and thus suppressing the natural defense of the organism.

DIED AT HIS POST.

A Dead Engineer's Hand on the Throttle.

With his hand on the throttle of his engine and flying over the road at the rate of between 40 and 50 miles an hour, Charles Torrey, an engineer on the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs railroad, was stricken with paralysis the other day and died without speaking a word. Even after he died the body of the engineer still remained in his seat at the side of the cab.

James McDonald, the fireman, sat on the other side of the engine, looking down the glistening lines of rail and for a time did not know that there was anything wrong with the engineer.

He glanced in that direction, but only saw the body of the engineer still in the seat and did not think of him being dead.

The train was increasing in speed, when McDonald noticed that Torrey did not whistle for the crossing. He rang the bell vigorously, and just then the train thundered by a station at which it should have stopped.

Then McDonald crossed over to the engineer's side of the cab and saw that Torrey's head had fallen on his breast.

The rocking motion of the engine caused it to roll from side to side. The fireman thought him asleep, called to him, then pulled him by the arm, and Torrey fell to the floor of the cab a corpse.

The fireman stopped the train and told the other trainmen what had happened. When Torrey died, he was leaning back in his seat in the cab, looking ahead at the track. His eyes did not close when death struck him, but were wide open and staring when the fireman discovered that he was dead.

Engineer Torrey had been in the employ of the road 13 years.—New York Journal.

"Well, what about all these stories about yourself—about your taking Sherman's place, about your disagreeable interview with him, your refusal to turn over your return, General Sherman's order during the war to shoot you?"

"I don't think the public takes an interest in such trash," was Mr. Reid's reply, "nor can I think any Republican newspaper believes it. I don't know that anybody is going to take Mr. Sherman's place, or that he has any notion of retiring. I had no disagreeable interview with him. I never even saw the absurd story till he, himself, sent it to me, in a letter denouncing it as false, mean and malicious."

FIRST GOLD IN ALASKA.

Natives Used It to Ransom Captive Friends.

Captain Harry Meiggs, U. S. A. (retired), who is said to be a relative of the man who built Meiggs wharf, San Francisco, away back in the fifties, tells a wonderful tale of the discovery of gold in Alaska in the latter part of the sixties. He was on duty in that country at that time at a point near Juneau, and says that even in those early days great lumps of gold were exhibited by the natives.

"Often natives from the interior would come down wearing necklaces made of nuggets picked up from the creeks in the interior," he said the other day. "At one time there was a tribe which had been conquered by another and a penalty was exacted. Some of the conquered tribe came over the Chilkat pass with a certain amount of gold, which on being weighed was found to be short of the price demanded by the conquerors. Several chiefs were held as hostages while the remainder of the tribe was directed to cross the mountains and procure a sum sufficient to liberate the others. They were gone several months, and when they came back an amount more than needed to pay the ransom was brought in. No one could ascertain whence the money came, but from the direction in which they went and the length of time occupied in making the trip it was believed that they went many miles inland.

"I believe that these men went into the passes of the Klondike country and picked up by the crude means at their command enough gold to secure the amount needed to complete the ransom. It was a topic of discussion among those who were detailed on duty at that time, and many plans were laid to secure information relating to the location of the claims, but these Indians kept the matter secret and would never disclose where they derived their treasure. I believe that even so far back as 30 years ago they went into the country which is now exciting the attention of the whole world and obtained the money necessary to release their relatives."—San Francisco Chronicle.

An Ingenious Experiment.

Mr. Clarence Alva of St. Louis has thought of a little scheme which gives a very good idea of the manner in which the earth is kept in space. Mr. Alva says a person may get the right idea if he secures a couple of magnets and places them directly opposite each other so that the currents shall flow in opposite directions. They should be an inch or so from each other. The magnets should be rather strong and should be of the same size and strength. Then the experimenter should make a little sphere of paper or some light substance and fasten two pieces of steel or similar metal to the ball, the metals being almost exactly opposite. Then comes the work of placing the sphere in the exact center of the space between the two magnets. If the experimenter can do this, he will have the sphere remaining in the air without any visible means of support. It is quite a trick to get the thing in correct operation, but Mr. Alva says it can be done.
